

FoodBall

Our Project is spreading awareness about food thorough a game that everyone loves: Football

We combined the 2 things and therefore made the name foodball.

It is a multiplayer video game that had healthy foods as powerups. It also randomly spawns junk food which reduces the players speed and strength to kick the ball when eaten Different healthy foods give different powerups, for example carrot gives 20% extra speed The aim is to beat the other player by eating the correct food and scoring goals.

Our game will be online so it will work during covid too

Here are a few concepts we rendered on Blender

“Meeting goals both in the game and real real life”
